

SOME PHENOMENOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF NON COMMUTATIVE 331 MODEL

M.HARRAT

*Laboratoire de Physique Mathématique et Subatomique
Physics Department, Faculty of Fundamental Sciences,
Constantine1 University, Constantine, Algeria*

ABSTRACT. Some new features of the recently proposed model based on the Frohlich-Chamssedine approach to non commutative geometry for the 331 model are presented and some phenomenological aspects are discussed.